Mr. J. H. Hardison, whose illness we mentioned two weeks ago, has been in rather a critical condition for several days past.

Mrs. Chas. H. Hunter and mother, Mrs. G. W. Sawyer, depart to-day for an extended visit with relatives and friends in Boston.

On Saturday last a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Arner. Also to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob S. Hood a son was born on the 22d inst.

Mr. J. D. W. Reek and little daughter Minnie, of Dallas, McKean Co., came down Saturday evening and remained until yesterday morning the guests of Mr. Reek's mother.

About all the head-stones for the soldiers' graves which have thus far been received for this county have been placed in position, and the graves put in proper order for Memorial Day.

The April oil report shows the completion of 415 new wells, 81 of which were dry holes. There are 283 rigs up and building, and the new production for the month foots up 6,287 barrels.

We observe by the new post office appointments within the past week that our old friend C. F. Gillespie, of Whig Hill, will hand out the mail to the patrons of that office during the next four years. Serves him right, and we're glad of it.

The great celebration in New York in honor of the 100th anniversary of Washington's inauguration, passed off yesterday without a jar. Other places observed the national holiday with appropriate ceremonies. Tionesta didn't celebrate.

The little fourteen-months-old son of Andrew Carr was very badly burned about the arms and face last Saturday, by having his clothing take fire from a lighted paper which he had secured in the momentary absence of his mother. The child will recover.

Mr. L. C. Brown, who has had charge of the Sires photograph gallery in this place for some time, will sever his connection therewith after next Saturday, but the proprietor, Mr. Sires, wishes to inform the public that he will give his personal attention to the work on Wednesday of each week, when all wishing work done should make it a point to be there. Remember the day, and don't stop for cloudy weather.

Mr. Clawson, the grocer, has an Easter hen that means business. She cackled last week over the arrival of a double egg—a small egg inside a big one measuring 7 by 9 inches and both perfect. This is not a trout story.—Warren Mail. Well, what sort of a story is it, then?

The steady rains from Friday till Monday of the past week brought the river and creek to more than good rafting stage, and as there were some odds and ends left along the creek from the last flood, due advantage was taken of the freshethy the lumbermen, and we believe all got nicely cleaned up.

A communication from Representative Randall, in this issue, on the repeal of the fence law, will be of interest to our Forest county readers. As will be seen the act repealing the fence law of 1700 is of little or no effect in this section, and a 4 foot fence is still required. In other words, the repealing act is one that don't repeal.

We this week set aside a column of our paper for the benefit of the Constitutional Amendment Association of this county until after the election on June 18th. The Executive Committee will have exclusive control of the matter which appears in the same, and as the time for voting draws near no doubt the agitation will grow quite interesting.

A meeting of Clarion Presbytery will be held in this place on the fourth Tuesday of June next, for the purpose of ordaining and installing Rev. J. V. McAninch as pastor of the Tionesta Presbyterian Church. Rev. W. F. Wood will preach the sermon; Rev. J. M. McCurdy will deliver the charge to the pastor, and the charge to the people will be delivered by Rev. H. J. Earseman. A number of other ministers and laymen of this Presbytery is expected to be present on this occasion.

"Billy" McKim, of the Railway Mail Service, who was relieved shortly before the termination of the Cleveland Administration, without cause, has been re-instated and will have the satisfaction of succeeding the man who succeeded him. Billy has served the Department faithfully for a number of years, lost a part of one of his hands, in the discharge of his duty, has always been found prompt, accurate and competent and richly merits the recognition displayed in his re-appointment.—Blizzard. Mr. McKim's many friends hereabouts will read this bit of news with a good deal of pleasure.

Mr. Kelly shot his latest well on the Baird tract, Dawson, yesterday, but it can hardly be called a howling success. It will produce a little oil, perhaps a barrel or two a day. J. F. Propper and Q. Jamieson have located a well on the east side of the railroad track, Gilbert Jamieson farm, and the rig, a patent concern belonging to Amos Kinch, of Lickingville, went through here yesterday. Drilling will soon commence there. Mr. Wolcott has a rig up for a new well not far from the mouth of Little Hickory creek, and will probably get the drill started the first of next week. The well on the Hill farm, is still bothered with a fishing job.

Dr. John Curwen, Physician-in-Chief and Supt. of Warren State Hospital for the Insane, says that the wards of the Hospital are now so crowded that to accommodate recent cases of mental disorder, which by law have precedence, and to avoid making those now in the Hospital more uncomfortable, it is necessary to give notice that cases of long standing mental disorder and cases of imbecility cannot be received, and it is particularly desired that due notice of the intention to place persons in the Hospital should be given to the Physician in charge in order that he may be able to notify the applicants if such persons can be admitted.

Hon. J. B. Agnew, whose errand to Washington we mentioned last week, returned Friday in quite a pleasant mood over his reception by the "powers that be" at that just now, interesting city. A first class position was tendered him, which he is arranging to accept and take charge of as soon as his business here will permit. Mr. Agnew is receiving the congratulations of his friends upon his good fortune. We understand that his legal business here will be left in charge of his law partner, Dist. Atty. Clark and his son C. M., while his oil and business interests will be looked after by his son and brother, L. Agnew and business partners. Mr. Agnew will still retain his residence among us, though his official duties will require his presence in Washington almost constantly.

W. R. Stall, of Marienville, was in town the fore part of this week and is dropped in to say that the village of Marienville is on the flood tide of prosperity, houses building rapidly, business brisk, work plenty and everybody in good spirits. A new branch road is being built from the P. & W.

to Cliff's mill, to accommodate the increased capacity of these works. This branch is the private enterprise of Mr. Cliff. Grading has been in progress for two weeks past. The mill is about 6 miles from Marienville and will tap the P. & W. about Penokee, some three miles above Marienville, and its length will be about six miles. It is understood that a passenger car will be put on the train for accommodation of that section. Marienville boasts of a machine shop which is kept busy all the time. Charley Leech has a saw mill and planing mill near the depot, also doing a good business. The future of this village is indeed promising, having in addition good churches, schools, stores, etc., and a bountiful supply of natural gas.—Clarion Rep.-Gazette.

A Fatal Fall.

The Derrick gives these particulars of a fatal accident which happened in the new oil field back of President last Saturday: This morning about 7 o'clock, John Schuch, a tool dresser, in the employ of Mallory Bros., was killed almost instantly while performing his duties on the Desher farm, near President. Having bound the sand line to his body, he started up the derrick, leaving the engine in motion, and when about 60 feet from the ground, the sand lever accidentally fell back, throwing the sand reel against the band wheel and pulling him off the derrick to the ground, first striking the walking beam and then the Jack post. When picked up he was unconscious and died in 30 minutes without recovering. Upon examination the jaw, back and the ribs were found to be broken, caused by striking on the walking beam, from which he fell and struck the Jack post with his head, fracturing his skull. He was jerked from the derrick with such force as to imbed the heels of his boots in the walking beam. Three fellow workmen who saw him fall claim it was purely accidental, and although they reversed the engine in an instant they could render no assistance to prevent his fall. He was carried to the Monroes boarding house, from which place he was taken to Oil City by Undertaker Paul, and from thence his body was conveyed to his late home at Mt. Hope, near Braden's Ferry.

He was a young man 20 years of age, of good, moral habits and loved and respected by all, being always encircled by a warm number of friends. His parents have the sympathy of all in their sad bereavement over the loss of so amiable a son.

Must Still Fence Against Cattle.

HARRISBURG, PA., Ap. 1 26, 1889.

MR. EDITOR:—

As a great deal of interest is manifested as to the present status of the fence law, by the citizens of Forest Co., the following explanation through your column may be of interest: The first section of the Act of 1700, which required a fence at last 5 feet high, of sufficient rails or logs, and close at the bottom, was, by Act approved April, 1889, repealed, which was a general law, and applied to the whole State. By the repeal of this law no fence was required, and if cattle trespassed upon the land of another and destroyed crops, the owner would be liable in an action of trespass for damages.

The repeal of the 1700 law did not, however, repeal the law of 1784, which by the decision of our best legal talent is still in force in Forest Co., and reads as follows: Be it enacted, and it is hereby enacted by the Representatives of the free men of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and by the authority of the same, That all fences erected in this State, within the limits hereinafter mentioned, shall be made and erected in the following manner, that is to say: All worm fences shall be four feet and one half high, with sufficient stakes and riders added thereon, and the under rail in each panel shall not exceed five inches from the surface of the ground, and the first four rails in each panel shall not exceed five inches wide between rails, and the said fence shall have at least four feet worm, and that all post and rail fences shall be four feet and one half high, and the distance between the rails as aforesaid.

SEC. 9. That nothing in this Act shall be taken or deemed to extend to or take effect in any other County of this State than the Counties of Bedford, Washington, Northumberland and Fayette.

Now, at the time of the passage of this Act of 1784, Forest County was a part of Northumberland County, and is consequently now under the provisions of that Act, and will be compelled to fence according to same before damages can be maintained, as are likewise all Counties within the boundaries of the provisions of the Act of 1784. Under the provisions of this Act, it will be seen that hogs are not free commoners, and not permitted to run at large.

RANDALL.

Tried to Escape.

Adam Ruth, the man convicted and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for robbing and nearly murdering Jacob Adamo, was taken down the river Wednesday by Sheriff Crawford, as was also Thomas Doyle, sentenced to two years' imprisonment for larceny. About twenty-five miles this side of Pittsburgh, Ruth, who was handcuffed, was observed to be leaning over against Doyle, who was also handcuffed and sat in the seat beside him. He explained to the Sheriff, who sat across the aisle, that he was sitting that way to rest himself. Presently Doyle looked nervously over his shoulder and the Sheriff stepped over to investigate, and to straighten up the weary, leaning Ruth. As he did so Ruth threw out of the open window beside him something resembling a piece of clock spring. What it was the Sheriff did not learn, but with it Ruth had succeeded in unlocking one of his handcuffs and was about to slip his hand out of it when caught. He then coolly informed the Sheriff that if he had been given another minute he would have lit on his feet. It was stated at the Penitentiary that Ruth had spent about ten years, all told, in that institution and recognized upon his arrival numerous old acquaintances.—Oil City Blizzard.

Strobleton.

The generally accepted theory is, that where there's gas there's oil, but in this proximity there is plenty of gas but no oil. P. Harkeerder of this section is confined to his bed by illness. We wish him a speedy convalescence. Rev. Slagle delivered an eloquent discourse at the Lickingville church last Sunday evening. Mrs. Peter Wolfe of this locality is also confined with the sick. The Hahn Bros. of Strobleton, are at present sawing logs which were hauled to their mill last winter. Miss Cora McMichael of this place, is at present stopping in Lickingville. April 30. ZIGZAG.

HERE AND THERE.

Eastern capitalists have purchased big tracts of coal land about Reynoldsville, Jefferson county, and are having surveys made for a railroad to extend northward to Lake Erie at a point between Dunkirk and Erie.—Pittsburgh Times.

The newest, and we might say "fattest" game is thus described by an exchange, which warns Justices of the Peace and guileless preachers against a well dressed couple who are "doing" the country: They have the ceremony performed, when the groom hands out a check for $20 to the person officiating, telling him to take out $10 dollars. The groom receives $10 in change and goes off to be married again. The check is worthless.

I married a widow who had a daughter. My father visited our house frequently, fell in love and married my step-daughter. Thus my father became my son-in-law and my step-daughter my mother, because she was my father's wife. My step-daughter had also a son, he was of course my brother and at the same time my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. My wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild at the same time and as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I was my own grandfather.—Ec.

Mr. Edison believes that the time will come when transportation through the air will be the general order of things. The idea that the air-ship must go up a mile or more is erroneous. If it were no higher than an ordinary building it would suffice. "When the time comes for it to be put in operation," he said, "there will be one drawback to it, and that is the ease which it will afford criminals to make their escape from whatever point their crime was committed. There will be no danger of their being intercepted by wire, as is the case now." It may be that the same science which will give us this sort of navigation will provide something else by which criminals who make their escape through the air will be overtaken.—Philo. Press.
